Brooke McLaughlin '25

“Brooke became a much more vocal presence in World Cultures this year, which allowed her classmates to learn from her consistent offerings during class. She tempered this acumen with humility, never lording her keen thinking over others, but also being a good class citizen who made the section better with her presence. Her ability to see patterns in events arching across the year’s content was commendable and will serve her well in future studies She truly distinguished herself as a thinker this year, and I wish her all the best next year.”
